OrionNet Systems –ThinkHealth It's been a year since becoming EHR Certified !!!

OrionNet Systems'ThinkHealth, June will mark our one year of being (EHR) certified. ThinkHealth - Practice Management Software (EHR), it was said that this is impossible to be done, there has even been rumors saying we are not EHR certified. We can put all of this here say to rest Here are the links to prove it: this is FULLY APPROVED by ICSA Labs <https://www.icsalabs.com/about-icsa-labs>

“In spite of the numerous declarations from our competitors that it wasn't possible, we met the ONC HIT 2014 EHR criteria,” said Clyde Wafford, president of OrionNet Systems. “With this certification, we believe our customers are well prepared to successfully demonstrate Meaningful Use.”

ICSA Labs had to approve OrionNet Systems in order for our company to appear on their website. ICSA Labs is one of the official certification bodies that CMS/ONC-ACB approves to grant certification. You may look at the list of Criteria on the certificate, those are all the things we tested ThinkHealth on to get our certification.

substance abuse, psychiatric diagnoses and premature death — in 1,475,030 Danes born from 1971 to 1997. Then they correlated these problems with the number of times each person had moved before age 15.

They followed the group until some were in their early 40s and found that the likelihood of every one of those adverse outcomes tended to rise the more someone moved in childhood. Contrary to the researchers' expectations, the associations persisted in both lower and higher socioeconomic groups.

prescription in multiple delivery methods. For national chains like Walgreens and CVS, that entails working closely with state regulators to ensure compliance and collaborating with prescribers to implement standing order agreements.

Walgreens currently dispenses the drug without an individual prescription at more than 1,500 pharmacies throughout nine states (Alabama, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island) and will be soon be expanding its initiative to the other 26 states where regulations allow it.

The transition to ICD-10 was easier than many had expected

When the costly and exhausting transition to the ICD-10 coding system occurred in October, some experts within the healthcare industry expected large-scale disruption and cataclysmic hits to providers' cash flow. Dire predictions about negative effects of the move didn't come to pass and now, eight months later, one of the leading organizations tracking the transition says its most recent survey shows minimal effects.

Coding accuracy is hovering around 65 percent now, and the average productivity decline was only 14 percent, much lower than expected, according to a study by the American Health Information Management

Mental Health Care Needs Greater Support Despite Strides

Mental health care has improved since the days when a teenager diagnosed with psychosis was told she would never complete her education, obtain a job or live a normal life.

But changes in the field have include stumbling blocks as well as successes, said a panel of experts that discussed behavioral health in an era of reform at a forum hosted by Health Affairs \(www.healthaffairs.org\) on June 7. He shared the story Patricia Deegan, Ph.D., the teenager who received the grim diagnosis, but who went on to become an adjunct professor of community and family medicine at Dartmouth College's Geisel School of
