DeWine Signs Ohio Capital Budget

Gov. Mike DeWine, has signed the $3.5 billion capital budget into law. Like previous capital budgets, this one includes money for improvements to public facilities and waterways but this one is different in one significant way. DeWine said the state normally issues bonds to cover many of the improvements identified in previous capital budgets — but not this time. “What’s unusual about this budget is, out of the $2.8 billion that can be bonded, we intend to pay for part, or possibly all of it, with cash. The capital budget includes money for mental and behavioral health treatment facilities, state parks, shoring up Ohio’s waterways and more. The measure provides more than $92 million for mental health and addiction services across the state. It includes support for renovations and improvements at state hospitals, and funding for recovery housing, mental health treatment facilities, and community program spaces. The funding will also support community resiliency projects for middle and high school youth. The projects that will benefit from this funding focus on treatment and recovery, risk reduction, improved quality of care, and enhancing partnerships in communities.
